Andrea Navedo: That also are willing to look at their ugly, and own up to it, and then be willing to change. Young and homeless on the streets of Toronto, a fugitive from an unquiet past that has followed him from his hometown in Northern Ontario, Benjamin Doheney is sustained by unusual sources of strength: his devotion to Sanskrit, the ancient literary language of India; the love he shares with Aditi, a PhD student in Sanskrit at the University of Toronto; and his vision of a future with her in India, a land in which she has her own troubled history, and which he has never seen.

The Powerpoint Declaration

Sam is faced with a big dilemma: Is it better to be honest, or flattering. The final Chapter 13 discusses different styles of language teaching and looks for their foundations in SLA research.
